NEIGHBORHOOD

Education opens up a world of possibilities and is instrumental in breaking the cycle of poverty.

transforming a community through EDUCATION

What is a Promise Neighborhood?

A Promise Neighborhood is a community of opportunity that allows children to learn, grow, and succeed. Funded by the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Innovation and Improvement, the initiative builds on successful efforts already underway and brings together schools, community organizations, local businesses, and other community members in a local neighborhood. Inspired by the model of the Harlem Children's Zone, Promise Neighborhoods wrap children in high-quality, coordinated health, social, community, and educational support from cradle to college to career.

Why is a Promise Neighborhood important?

Family struggles do not remain isolated - a whole family is impacted as well as the community in which they live. By bringing together San Diego's collaborative community partners to provide comprehensive wraparound supports, San Diego Promise Neighborhood (SDPromise) will build a pipeline of services that are data-driven and results-based so children can grow up healthy, well-educated, and successful.

Partners Make the Promise

Coordinated by South Bay Community Services, SDPromise brings together a collaboration of partners including schools, local government agencies, non-profit organizations, health services and businesses to develop an impressive plan for a seamless continuum of cradle to career solutions that creates high expectations for all children and provide a clear and viable pathway to college and career success.

SDPromise Programs & Services

Strong schools are at the heart of SDPromise but opportunities extend beyond the school walls. The comprehensive plan offers various services and programs focused on family, education, health, and community to support children and family for success now and beyond. Community driven planning will continue throughout the five-year initiative to ensure that the pipeline of solutions meets the evolving needs of the neighborhoods.
